About our speaker

David B. Brunson

DVM, MS, Diplomate ACVA

Dr. Brunson received his BS in 1972, DVM in 1974 and MS in 1979 from the University of Minnesota. Clinically he has worked in a private mixed animal practice and was the professor of anesthesiology at Cornell University, Michigan State University and the University of Wisconsin. He currently serves as the adjunct associate professor in the department of surgical sciences at the University of Wisconsin.

He is the owner of Veterinary Anesthesia Consultants, LLC – a CE consultation company. Dr. Brunson joined the PAH in October of 2006, and is an expert in pain management, sedation and anesthesia of domestic, research, wildlife and zoo animals. He is a past president of the American College of Veterinary Anesthesiologists, received recognition in 2009 with the Team Leadership award and CAD Lead Dog award and PAH Presidents Circle II 2010.

His primary product focus is on the pain, sedation and anesthesia suite of drugs (Rimadyl™, Dexdomitor™, Butorphanol, Ketamine, and Telazol™). He also supports the appropriate use of Cerebra™, Palladia™, Revolution™ and Convenia as many of the products in the therapeutics area are used concurrently in animals that require pain relief or sedation.
